1.7 million people require surgery for trachomatous trichiasis, the late blinding stage of the disease†

44 countries are known to require interventions for trachoma†

65 million people at risk in Ethiopia, the world’s most affected country†

125 million people are known to be at risk of trachoma globally†

14 countries have been validated as having eliminated trachoma as a public health problem†

164 districts worldwide reached the active trachoma elimination threshold in 2021, resulting in 21 million people no longer requiring treatment*