As of 2023

- 129 districts worldwide reached the active trachoma elimination threshold in 2022, resulting in 19.1 million people no longer requiring treatment*
- 115.7 million people are known to be at risk of trachoma globally†
- 1.5 million people require surgery for trachomatous trichiasis, the blinding stage of the disease†
- 64 million people at risk in Ethiopia, the world’s most affected country†
- 40 countries are known to require interventions for trachoma†
- 18 countries have been validated as having eliminated trachoma as a public health problem†
- 129 countries are known to require interventions to eliminate trachoma as a public health problem
- May require interventions; further investigation needed
- Thought not to require interventions; claims to have eliminated
- Validated as having eliminated trachoma as a public health problem
- Thought to not require interventions

According to the Global Health Observatory, 2023

*Source: International Trachoma Initiative
†Source: GET2020 Database